Julie Hale

Julia learned to sew at an early age alongside her mother and her vintage Singer sewing machine. She taught Julia this invaluable skill, which led them to make clothes and curtains before they caught the Bicentennial “quilting bug” in the late 1970s. In the early 1980s, they opened their quilt shop, Bits ‘n Pieces, eventually becoming the oldest Bernina dealer in Michigan. Infatuated with creating quilts, Julia began writing and selling commercial quilt patterns in 1997, and over 40 years later, quilting still brings her daily creativity and joy.
